Going West.

The Parkersburg Journal notices that West Virginia continues to furnish her quota to the tide that moves Westward every spring. This is true, and "pity 'tis is true, "for, as we have often said, very many of these emigrants are making thanges that will not benefit them. We noticed on Friday the departure from this county of an unusual number of persons belonging to one family connection, who expected to settle near Sedalia, Missouri. It happens, curiously enough, that one of the present citizens of this county, who everal years ago took Horace Greeley's reveral years ago took Horace Greeley's divice, and went West to grow up with the country, located in that same vicinity in Missouri, and bought a farm and lived there several years, and, at last, after having suffered much personal discomfort from drouth and other drawbacks, was lad tocome back to the land of his nativity and rehabilitate himself once more upon West Virginia soil.

Let no one understand us as saying that there are not States in the Union the several years, and the content of the present of the present content of the present content of the present citizens of this country. The conference appointed the following Triers of Appeals: W. E. Lovett, J. B. Feather, J. W. Griffith, A. R. Riley, Martin, R. M. Wallace. The Conference Board of Church Extension, was constituted as follows: The resident; C. D. Hubbard, Vice President; C. C. Wilding, Corresponding Secretary; John Bailie, Recording Secretary; James Read, Treasurer. Additional M. K. List, Eq. A. R. Riley, D. H. K. Dix, and H. K. List, Eq. A. R. Riley, D. H. K. Dix, and the country of the State University, was adopted by a unanimous rising vote. Dr. Kynette, Dr. Wheeler, editor of the fitts buryout the present country and the present citizens of the 'tis true," for, as we have often said, very many of these emigrants are making changes that will not benefit them. We noticed on Friday the departure from this belonging to one family connection, who expected to settle near Sedalia, Missouri. It happens, curiously enough, that one of the present citizens of this county, who several years ago took Horace Greeley's advice, and went West to grow up with the country, located in that same vicinity in Missouri, and bought a farm and lived there several years, and, at last, after having suffered much personal discomfort from drouth and other drawbacks, was glad tocome back to the land of his nativi-ty and rehabilitate himself once more upon West Virginia soil.

that there are not States in the Union where a man can do as well as in West Virginia. There are doubtless some where me people, owing to the nature of their employment, can do better. We speak simply of the general fact and broad truth that a majority of the people who leave us could do just as well, if not better, by remaining, provided always they are willing to work as hard and undergo as much deprivation as many, if not most, of them do when they settle down in the The article from the Springfield Re-

lican, in Saturday's paper, presented

The article from the Springfield Republican, in Saturday's paper, presented the points in favor of West Virginia as a good country to emigrate to, and an equally good one to remain in, as strongly as any that we have seen of late, and we commend it to the attention of those who think that desirable localities for homes must be sought beyond the confines of their native heath.

Our agricultural and horticultural friend, Thos. Hornbrook, Eaq., goes to the country this week, as is his wont at this season of the year, to enter upon the usual spring and summer campaign incident to the elaborate care which he exercises over his beautiful suburban place. Those who visit him within the next few weeks will find him divested of all the store clothes visible upon his person at the temperance meetings, and instead thereof arrayed in his rag-bag suit, got up exclusively with a view to healthful ventilation. He has been a good deal ailling of late for the want of plenty of air and sunshine, but when he once gets at the work of trimming and grubbing, digging post holes and setting out trees, we shall expect to hear the same old story of a rise in the price of family supplies.

Mr. Hornbrook is a firm believer in the curative properties of the sun's rays, not through "blue glass" (he is opposed to receiving anything through a glass except the pure and the sparkling water), but from heaven direct, without a single ray arrested in its course by any medium save the bracing breezes. These genial rays, mixed with plenty of perspiration, three good meals a day, and nine hours, the sound present in the price of family supplies.

save the bracing breezes. These genial rays, mixed with plenty of perspiration, three good meals a day, and nine hours' sound sleep every night, are his life pre servers at this stage of his existence. By the aid of all these healthful influences he thinks he can hold together at least one more season. He doesn't talk as if felt sure of doing more than this, but this misgiving we attribute to a slight touch of hypochondria induced by over-exertion at the temperance meetings and the hermit like life he leads when shut up in his office. All he needs to add ten years of sound health to his life is to style, build a handsome depot in his park, throw open his grounds to the public, and thus make his place the resort of the happy people who will drive away all his ennul by whispering the most delicate compliments in his ears.

THE schools in West Va. interested in the Peabody Fund, will read with interest the following remarks of the late State Superintendent of Schools, Col. Byrne, before the City Council of Charleston. We quote from the Courier as fol-

On motion of same gentleman, Col. B. W. Byrne, late Superintendent of Free Schools, was requested to explain to the Council the reason why we have not received any aid for our schools from the "Peabody Fund."

Col. Byrne stated that there had beer Col. Byrne stated that there had been as yet no appropriations made for the schools of this State, but only recommendations made to the Superintendent of the Peabody fund, and that the amount recommended by him for this school was 750 00, but according to the regulations made by the trustees having charge of said fund, a school must be laught for tan months before it can receive any aid from the fund. And the citizens having voted for a six month's school, he was unable to say whether the school would receive any appropriation or not.

WE observe that the new President of the West Virginia University is on hand at the Grafton Conference looking sharply after the interests of that institution He made a speech on Thursday night on "behalf of educating West Virginia brains on West Virginia soil to develop West Virginia resources." He also "spoke hopefully and confidently of the success of the University, and paid a glowing tribute to the West Virginia of the future." We venture that the Conference will not go back on the University this year. Thompson will see that no resolution is introduced recommending people to send their sons out of the State to Allegheny College and Asbury University.

The Home of Taste.

How easy it is to be neat—to be clean! How easy it is to be neat—to be clean! How easy to arrange the rooms with the most graceful propriety! How easy it is to Invest our losses with the truest elegance! Elegance resides not with the upholsterer, nor with the draper—it is not in the mossies, the carpetings, the rosewood, the mahogany, the candelabra, or the marble ornaments—it exists in the spirit, presiding over the chambers of the dwelling. Contentment must always be most graceful. It shades serenity over the scene of its abode—it transforms a waste into a garden. The home lighted by these imitations of a nobler and a brighter life may be wanting in much which the discontented desire, but to its inhibitiants it will be a palace far outvieing the oriental in brilliancy and glory. The Home of Taste.
